LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY. WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAY 22, 1861. VOLUME 32.

ARMY CORRESPONDENCE. The Call to Arms—Preparations for Battle—Arrival of Artillery—The Kentucky Boys—Tom Marshall—A Pretty Scene—A Storm.

HAHPER'S FERRY, VA., Tuesday, May 14. 5
The "long roll"—that ominous precur sor of battle and blood-was beat yesterday afternoon for the first time in this garrisou. A courier arrived from the Point of Rocks informing Col. Jackson of the approach of a hostile force, and there ensned an instant commotion in the camp. There were hurrying to an fro of armed men-soldiers who had been lazily lounglng about their quarters were immediatel transformed into alert and erect troops Not an idler was to be eeen. From every point there gleamed the bright bayonets and there were very few who did not respond promptly to roll call. The long line of soldiery with their gay uniforms and bright muskets presented a beautiful aparance, but in the back-ground there arose a gloomy picture of the fearful desolation that a single hour's conflict might create in these now stalwart ranks At a few windows tearful women and children were visible, while others were fast hasten ing from town. But to me the most significant premonition of impending danger was the activity and haste with which our friend Dr. Forsyth made his prepara tions for what seemed to be a rapidly ap roaching scene of carnage. I called at his quarters for a moment before falling into ranks with my Minnie rifle, and found him arranging his instruments and preparing his lint and bandages with the charac teristic nonchalance of an experienced

The alarm eventually subsided, but each man sleft on his arms, and renewed vigilance was observed in stationing the outposts. Fortunately the enemy tarried sev eral miles from us, and if they will only defer their coming a few days we will gladis welcome them with shot and shell .-Yesterday two heavy columbiads and a hattery of twelve pounders, with several thousand stands of arms were received from Richmond. The place is dally being rendered more defensible, and all that we now require is time to complete our arrangements. Our force consists of only about 3,600 effective men, though we hear constantly of more reinforcements on their way hither. Still our little band will be able to fight the good fight of independence

The Kentneky Regiment has been disanded, and the companies of Captains Harvey, Lapaielle, Crossland and Bowman, form a Bettalion under the command of Blanton Dancan as Lieut, Colonel. It is suppore I that an effective regiment will be raised by the union of several Baltimore companies. Captains Desha and Pope are acting independently, and have been formed into a seperate battalion, which will be hereafter increased to a full regimental lion. Thomas F. Marehail was a passenger on the train from Baltimore, Sunday afternoon. Some of our Kentucky boys catching a gllinpse of his well known face at the car window, raised a huzza, which quickly spread through the crowd. The distinguished Captain could only bow his acknowledgements, and express his satisretion at seeing so many rebel troops.

Yesterday morning there was quite : lively time at the hotel, near the railway station. Several ladles from the Gulf States had arrived, who distributed among the soldiers portraits of Jeff. Davis, with oquets of fresh flowers. The falr women were cheered to the celio by the brave men, and Rev. Dr. Scott, late Chaplain at Fort Pickens, delivered a regular was speech. Other gentlemen spoke, and among them W. M. McConnell, of Capt. Crossland's company, for Old Kentucky.

Last night we had thunder, lightning rain, and hail. This morning the clouds lower gloomlly, but the birds are twittering in the trees near by as peacefully as It war with its raven wing did not brood over the land. SE DE KAY. We have mentioned the points to which the gons from Cincinnati were sent via Kentucky Central Railroad. About twenty-five hundred percussion muskets were sent to Maysville at the same time. HAMILTON GRAY, the Chairman of the "Union Democratic District Commit tee," received them at Cincinnatl, and took charge of them to Mayaville, where they were placed in the hands of WILLIAM H. WADSWORTH, the Submission candidate for Congress in the Ninth District, and others for distribution among the friends of the perjured neurper at Washington. LEONIDAS METCALFE, DAVID BERRY, and others were ready on the morning of their arrival at Mayaville to take charge of the share intended for Nicholas county. These guna, it seems, were sent to Cincinuati in the name of Lieut, WM, NELSON, of the United States Navy, who visited this State a few weeks ago, doubtless to learn whether the representatives of the tiations with LINCOLN the Bastard, SEV ARD the Traitor, and CAMERON the Corrupt, were correct, the partles last named, we infer, not being altogether eatiefied to trust a man who would betray his own State and its people into the hands of these who would destroy the one and enslay the other.

FRANKFORT, Kr., May 21.

Editors Louisville Courier:— A lovelier pleture than Frankfort by meoulight, never presented itself to my vision. The enchanting "Alhambra," nade famous by the charming pen of Irving, failed to excei such scenes as we have here. Located as the city is, in a basin, environed by hills which shut out from lile one half of its allotted amount of light and sun, it has its pictures of beauty; just such pictures is would delight the poet's or the painter's dream. First of these are its fair ladies and beauteons belles, unrivalled in grace. STATE CAPITOL, and beauteous belies, unrivalled in grac-and loveliness, and unsurpassed in accom-plishments and the charms of society plishments and the charms of society. Then it has its cemetery, decorated with its screed mementees of the departed—its State monument, towering to the skies, in testimouy of the love and veneration of a free people—for the memory of those whose names and deeds make up their country's battle-page in history. Let us go, and from yon stately steep look down upou Kentucky's placid stream, gently winding its way, and cedar cliffs, to the bosom of the Ohio. You scarcely hear a murmur from its low-toned waves, as if in reverence to the sleeping dead above, its murmuring voice had ceased to speak.

Should such a picture be sadder than one Should such a picture be sadder than one you wish to contemplate, then, as the twilight steals into the deeper shades of night, turn your vision to another point. Go view a picture which, as yet, hangs suspended in undlumed loveliness, with mo outline of sadness on its smites. There, woman's voice makes night musical with its dulcet tones. Its faintest sounds go forth to meet the ear of night, as a lone spirit seeking the object of its dearest love. Then there are beautiful lawns and gardens, here such there, whose trees are bathed in silvery light, and the perfune of a thousand flowers and the misic of merry voices ringing out from brilliant parlors, all contribute to blend our seuses with delight. Should such a picture be sadder than on delight.

The mind, exhausted with the cares of day, ou such a night goes forth in quest of beauty and recreation. Some seek com-panionship in communing with absent wives, children, or lovers, as the case may be. There are others who, having neither of these at home, float like waifs upon the stream of time, eaching here and there at some sweet flower along its banks. How some sweet flower along its banks. How essential is it to our happiness here to have our affections riveted upon some cherished object. To him whose heart ever bears with it this picture of affection, it is to him a mirror in which all things are reflected in hearty, and through which he looks abroad upon the wide and illimitable fields of creation with an appreciative eye. His thoughts ascend above the sordid things of sense, and ioning in communications. lidings of sense, and, joining in commu-uion with the spirit of his love, he finds himself a better and a holier heing. And this is a picture of Franklort at night.

Turn from these views and look at a land about to be drenched in blood, for we may now realize the fact that "Grim visaged war has not smoothed his wrinkled front," and the heart of the patriot siekens in truth.

The House met yesterday evening and transacted a small arount of local uninese, and after wrangling a short time, adjourned without taking up the Military Rill. We have reports here, which have been

Arms for the Abolitionists in Lexington-Note from Garrett Davis-Abolition Policy. LEXINGTON, Ky., May 20, 1861.

Editors Louisville Courier: The telegraph informed us last Saturday that the Execu-tive had ordered 5,000 stand of arms to tive had ordered 5,000 stand of arms to Kentucky for certain purposes. As this is a movement of grave importance, con-templating doubtless the suppression of the public sentiment and free action of the citizans of our State, by the extension of the same inflitary despotism over them as that which is crushing down Missouri. I place before the public the facts in the I place before the public the facts in the matter, as far as our city is concerned.

Late on Friday, sir. Hiram Shaw, of this place, was surprized with a hasty and confidential note, informing him that "200 MUNKETS HAD HEEN SENT TO HIS CARE, AND WOULD ARRIVE IN LEXINATION ABOUT TWO OR THERE O'CLOCK AT NIGHT; THAT HE WISHND HIM TO RECEIVE AND HOLD THEM UNTIL FURTHER INSTRUCTIONS."

(Sigued,) GARRETT DAVIS. Ten boxes of arms arrived at the appointed hour. Mr. Shaw received them; but, mwilling to he a party to this armed compliacy against his fellow-citizens, he handed them over at once to Dr. Dudley, Commander of the Lexinston Hone Garaf.

naphinary against his fellow-citizens, he andded them over at once to Dr. Dudley, ommander of the Lexington flome Gnard. e made no secret of Mr. Davis' note, the made no secret of Mr. Davis' note, showing it to any friend who called to make inquiry. No further instructions had been received to noon on Saturday, though it was the general understanding that only those could get arms who would take an oath to support the Government at Washington.

These developments, considered in the light of the test of countries.

light of other facts of recent occurrence must not be too lightly considered.

First, the chief object of Garrett Davis visit to, and confidential interviews with,
President Lincoln, is explained. Mr. Davis s may not intend so terrible a crime; but the policy which he is aiding and comorting succeeds, he promises to be to his other State what Judis Iscariot was to Second. The policy of the so-called Julion party lu the Legislature, is unmask-id. Their course with reference to makng appropriations may now be explained. They have whittled and cut down the estinates to ouc-tenth the amount first pro sed; and no one will be surprised if the p 38ed; and no one will be surprised it they shally reliase to yote any appropriations whatever. And why? Because the arms thus purchased would be distributed without fiver to any party, and thus place all upon an equality. But, by alliance and league with the Lincoln Government, they are a true to account the case and institute party and arms.

reagns with the Lincoln Government, they can arm the peace and justice purty alone; put down all opposition by military power, and deliver our State, berrayed and bound, lato the hauds of her enemies.

Loyal Kentuckians! Never have the honor and interests of our beloved State been so imperited as now! By the accidents of the hour, har destinies are in the hands of these, whose sympathics are with her enemies. nour, her destines are in the hands of those, whose sympathics are with her enemies. Will you not rise up and rescrie her from this false and dangerous position. Let the victory be won at the ballot-box, if possible; but if armed cohorts are organized in your midst to overawe and crush you down, be sure that you are prepared for the perils of the hour. If the Aboiltion Government sends 5000 arms. ion Government scuda 5,000 arms to its friends in Kentucky, the Confederate Government will surely losu as many to its friends here for their self-defense. VIGILANCE.

pendence with Jons Russell, and he writes me that he has had his eye upon the statesmen of Louisville for some time, and s much pleased to see that they are i is much pleased to see that they are not backward in giving the people their notions of things in general, and particularly of Secession; that though their wonted modesty is commendable, yet he is happy to see that whenever patriotism impels, their manies can be had; that I should by no means abandon my original idea of subscribing may mame to my piece; that it is a no means abandou my original idea of sub-scribing my mame to my piece; that it is a calamity to mankind that I, in common with some other of the Lonisville states-men, are over-burthened with modesty, and he hopes for the sake of humanity for once that I will cast it off, that good may be done. He writes thathe hopes that some-thing will be done with secession, and that he has strong hopes that my piece with my name subscribed to it will sourch the thing more right to collect arius on the seil of Kentucky, than had John Brown on that Kentucky, than had John Brown on that of Virginia. The one is as lawless as the other. Other citizens of this State have been denied the right of purchasing arms on the other side of the Onio; then why is Mr. Garrett Davis permitted to receive them from that quarter by the wholesale? This privilege needs a solution. Did he pledge Mr. Lincoln to give him aid in his wicked and unholy crusade against the Southern States? Doubtless, this is a solution to the whole matter.

attention given him by the large crowd present, and the prolonged applause that rung through the house told plainly that the stubborn facts he proclaimed founced a ready response in the hosoms of the loyal and stury sens of Scott, whose every feeling is in sympathy with the South.

Later is the day the Union-savers held a meeting to nomlune Mr. Crittenden for Congress. Star-spangled banner resolutions were reported, when the Chairman of the meeting requested all in favor of sending Mr. Crittenden to Congress to say aye. About two dozen of the faithful voted in the affirmative. When the negative proposition was put to the House, the noes that resounded through the room was "confirmation strong as proof of holy writ," that the people of Scott didn't want Mr. Crittenden to go to Congress. This expression of opinion, as emphatic as it was unexoceted, astounded the meeting. The Chairman was taken all abock, and after remarking that a meeting that would vote versies. remarking that a meeting that would von against Mr. Cristenden, would vote again any person or thing that might be presented, declared Mr. C. wannimously the non-liner. FROM WASHINGTON.

No Prospect of Peace—Republican Views of the Next Congress—Pur-chase of Arms—Increase of the Navy—Privateering of the Confed-erate States, &c. [Correspondence of the Baltimore Sun. 1 WASHINGTON, May 17.

"We said, in an article on Thursday, that a deep distrust of the loyalty of the State Gnard had fixed itself very generally in the public miud. Whether that distrust is just or unjust, its existence is undeniable. If it is nijust, the officers and men composing the Gnard should take prompt measures to remove it. They cannot reasonable question that there is a smally cuestion that the contract of the state of the contract of th Washington, May 17.

Some few of the Union journals commend to the attention of the coming Congress the interests of peace, and this suggestion is promptly denonneed as "next door to treason." There is not, however, the least foundation for any fear that the interests of peace will find a single advocate among the representatives from the Northern States, with the exception possibly of California. That State, remote from the scene of civil strife, and having no enmity to either of the parties engaged in it, may hierpose at least some measures for conciliation.

measures to remove it. They cannot reasonably question that there is abundant cause for it. We know nothing whatever of the political position of General Buckuer, but wa are assured that nearly the whole of the Guard are not only open, but zealous and active, Secessionists."

It is not a matter of surprise, when the best men amougst us are viewed with distrust, that the State Guard should not eacape criticism, but I couless that it was with equal surprise and ragret that I read your arraignment. An ordinary criminal might be decimed innocent until proved guilty; but, under your arraignment, the State Guard are required to prove their innocence by refuting the ldle runners of the day. r conciliation.
the war spirit which has arisen in Northern States this side of the cky Mountains will prevall unchecked, July, and Congress will act under its nence. A leading Administration pain July, and Congress will act nucleother its influence. A leading Administration paper says that Congress, meeting on the 4th of July, ought to terminate the session on the 13th—that they are not called to enter into general legislation, but to supply the ourseions in their legislation of last session. Money, men, and laws, for the punishment of treason, are to be called for. The report that the government has purchased a large supply of improved arms in Europe is fully confirmed. A portion of these have arrived in New York, and more, to an indefinite number, are expected. It is also expected that a large number of Minie rifles can be procured in Canada. I am unequal to such a task, and there-ore will not attempt it; but claim the right, s an officer of the State Guard, to reply to the insignations, rather than to the larges which you have made against its members.

The Kentncky State Guard is made up of elements from all political parties in the State. The members sign an obligation to anpport the Constitution of the United States and of the State of Kentncky, and the officers take the ordinary oath of office. They do not constitute a political organization; they are the soldiers of the State. The partisan is lost in the sense of duty and obligation to the community. anada.

Congress will no doubt second the eforts of the government for the rapid augnentation of the navy. No difficulty isound in obtaining sammen, but an effective olockade of two thousand miles of sea blockade of two thousand miles of sea coast cannot be maintained without a very large addition to the number of our vessels of war. The policy of withdrawing from foreign service all our squadrons for service on the coast will before long be a subject of complaint on the part of our commercial interests. We have immense flevts of nucrehantnen in the Mediterranean, in the China seas, in the Northand South Pacific, in the British channel—every where, indeed, which are to be left, exposed to the privateering enterprise of the Confederate States, and it is not to be supposed that such an opportunity for making prizes will be neglected. It may be said that the privateers, if they get out, cannot take their prizes into any foreign port. So much the worse; for, in that case, and expecially if the privateers will plunder the vessels, and then, pirate-like, sink, hurn and destroy them, with their passengers and crews. The horrors of this coming war are yet but faintly pletured to our view. My own staff will illustrate the compo-sition of the State Guard. I do not know the political opinions of all of them, but almost every shade of political sentiment almost every shade of political sentiment to be found in Kontucky is represented in some uncinbers of my staff. I do not consider them unditted for discharging their duties as soldiers of the State, because they happen to differ in their preferences as to the true policy of the State. On the contrary, the people of Kentucky, instead of desiring the assimilation of the political elements of the State into rival military organizations, for the des runction of each other, should prefer that the antagonistic elements should blend together in one immeuse State Gnard to carry out, without any division of action, whatever policy may be adopted by the State.

The principle on which the State Gnard The principle on which the State Gnard the principle on which the State Ghard is organized, I regard as diametrically opposad to that which is singgested in the following extract from the article in your columns: "Let brave, bold leaders assume the duty and responsibility of crganizing companies, battalions, regiments, upon their own authority; the necessary arms to be Procured whenever and wherever. war are yet but faintly pictured to our

Such an organization as is there suggested by yon, would at once array against ach other as many armed and jarring the tions, as there were "brave, bold leaders" in the political arens. When the State Gnard degenerates into such a political organization, it will not find me as its comnander.

The influence of the officers of the State Gnard has been exerted, and is still exerted, on the side of law and order, and the Reselved. That the following persons be appropriate to the County.

It is not claiming too much for them to say that on more than one occasion, very recently, the State Guard has contributed, in a very decided way, to the preservation of peace on our border. In its organization it is also a conservative body, interposed between the extreme factions, obeying and enforcing, under the envil amhorities, the laws of the State. If it is crushed, as many extreme men desirch that it should be, it will remove the only barrier which now remains it the State to prevent a contest hetween the angry lactions which are arraying themselves against each other. Whatever may be the individual opinions or expressions of feeling on the part of members of the State Guard, no one can point to any of its acts, as an organized body, which are disloyal to Keutucky.

I am surprised that you treat with such seriousness the incident which you relate of the parade in L-miswille. I am credibly Win. Hays, Jas. F. Keel, W. G. Robinson, John L. Smith, John Coffeey, Jas. As a further evidence of this fact, on the very day when yon penned the article in your journal, three companies of the State Guard, as we are informed by the press, were in Cincinnati, joining in the reception of Col. Anderson. When the position of the State Guard, therefore, is so little understood, it is perhaps not surprising seriousness the incident which you relate of the parade in Lonisville. I am credibly mformed that the shouts to which you alique were called forth by shouts of an entirely different character; and that the shouts which are proportional. Therefore,

A sitiure of duty on the part of either should result in severing the official relations existing between ns. their confidence, or thwarted by ground-less enspicions and partisan distrust. If they are unwilling to place confidence in a man who will not consent to gnide his official conduct in accordance with the views of partisan and political clubs, I am equally unwilling to serve a people whose patriotism shall degenerate into faction, and whose energies, instead of being uni-ted in some decided policy in behalf of the State, shall be wasted in internecine strife.

I regard myself as a soldier of the State

I consider that as long as I consent to hold a commission in her service, it is my duty to endeavor, in every lawini way, to carry out whatever policy the State may dictate. In doing so I have no right to consult, and will not c. nsult, my individual preferences as to what that policy should be. If she should impose upon me duties which my judgment or conscience would not approve of, I will yield back to her all authority which she ways, and tell her to find some which she gave, and tell her to find some other instrument to execute her will.

I would also consider it my duty to retire from the service of the State if the imposed upon the force which I command duties which could not be fulfilled, because the means of executing them were withheld.— In other words, self respect and public duty alike compel me to refuse to be a willing instrument to bring dishonor upon the arms of Kentneky.

On one other point I wish to be equally explicit. I have not sought the official position which I now hold. I will not hold it when I am satisfied that I can yield it with advantage to the State. Kentucky has many worthier sons than I, who can more nearly fill the requirements of the position, to any one of whom I am willing to yield it. I have no other claim upon the State than the privilege of taking my place amongst her sons, when her constitutional rights shall be forcibly invaded. She can claim from me every duty which

When the position of the State Guard, therefore, is so little understood, it is perhaps not surprising that your Frankfort correspondent should bring a charge that public arms were given to the Captain of a certain company because he was a Secessionist, at the very time the officer was bitterly complaining that I withheld the arms from opposite motives. But such is the necessary consequence of a faithful attempt to discharge a public duty.

I do not know how correct may be the assurances you have received in reference to the political sentlments of officers of the State Guard. I am accustomed to look upon their qualities as gentlemen and as soldiers, and do not investigate their politics. I happen to know, however, that some of the ablest officers of the dallest officers of the fact of the political faith, there can be no doubt of their fidelity to Kentucky. If all her citizens prove as true to the State as the members of the State Guard, Kentucky will have no divisions at home and need lear no danger from without.

As to my own "political position," to which you allude, I nave but little to say. I have nevar offered myself for political lavors, and am not likely to do so. It would, therefore, be little short of impertinence in me to thrust my views of politics before the public, who would be but on the soil of Kentacky, or to interfere with on the soil of Kentacky, or to interfere with on the soil of Kentacky, or to interfere with tinence in me to thrust my views of poll-tics before the public, who would be but little cullghtened by them. But between the citizens of Kentucky and nyaelf there is one bond which requires between us a bill and unreserved explanation, and not only an explanation on my part, but a corresponding confidence on theirs. Turre is between us an official connection, resulting from my holding the ollica of Inspector General. "The right of the people to be secure in their PERSONS, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizeres, SHALL NOT BE VIOLATED; and no warrants [ without which any search or seizure is nureasonable,] shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized." And not content with that, this organ of the Submissionists of Kentucky, this mouth-piece of those who would precipitate civil strife among us, maintains that Gen. Harner, whose "tonorance, pas-sion and caprice," Gen. Winfield Scott but little more than one year ago referred to in an official paper ln terms of marked severity, did right in issning his proclama tion setting aside the acts of the Legisla tive authority of the State and inciting disturbance and strife among the people of the State-an act of neurpation which would be tolerated by no free people, and against which even slaves would revolt.

And growing more patriotic as the themprogressed, having satisfied itself of the propriety of the act of wanton perjnr committed in the arrest of Frost and his command, and fallen in love with the Military Dictatorship of Hanwho stands charged on the records of the War Department, by an officer of respectability and merit, as being "notori ous for profunity, brutality, incompetency peculation, recklessness, insubordination, tyr anny, and mendarity," it makes the state, ment of scores of nameless Black Republieans of Missouri the ground for demanding that the Government shall exercise more power in that State than even it is doing under the "stringent proclamation" of the General referred to above, whose name, a blot on the records of the army, we wish not to repeat !

That is it! It is not enough that innocent men are arrested without warrant of law; that civil law is set aside, that women and children are shot down in the streets; that houses are searched and private proporty atolen: that ladies are anbiceted to indignities never heard of before in a country claiming to be civilized, by a brutai and mercenary soldiery, that a Military Dictatorship is established and a free people held in subjection at the point of the bayonet-these do not satisfy the friends of the Administration, though knows.

and unheard-of-before atrocities, the Journal is preparing its readers for what the It is preparing the public mind for an attempt to hitch Kentneky alongside of Missouri and Maryland and Maryland to the Linion the Linion attempts to confound the secoders by read the old and new States were incorporated to the Linion and Maryland and Maryland to the Linion and Maryland and Missouri and Maryland to the triumphal car of Higher Law !

Why not furnish the State Guard with arms and put them in camp, If an encampment is needed, for the presentation of Kentucky sature? The state Guard is formed of the best material, and its commander has a reputation for the most they can do is to transfer the battle from Virginia and Missouri to Kentucky, where the hordes that obey their hidding will be welcomed "with bloody hands to hospitable graver;" and when they transfer the battle-field to Kentucky, should they dare do it, they may expect to be driven from the Capital by a hundred thousand men from the South, and to see Maryland resend from their iron grasp and set upon her feet, "reacemed, regenerated, and disenthralled," ready to visit vengeance on the heads of these who have so grievously wronged her.

As no gentleman, no man of honor or courage, would associate with this shameless creature, or willingly serve under him, we can easily conceive of the materials of which this hour of man of Lincoin.

These troops are to keep Louisville in a state of subjection. If Lincoin intends to permit Kentucky to occupy a neutral position, he can do so without any troops. We do not desire without any troops. [For the Louisville Courier.] Judge Logan on the Right of Secession.

Editors Louisville Courier: With a grand fourish of trumpets, the Louisville Journal commends to the admiration and almost to the adoration of this community the paper of Judge Legan on the Constitutional Aspect of the Doctrine of Secessien, coupled with the ioregone conclusion that the learned Judge has foregone the contract settled this much vexed question. ever cettled this much vexed question.

Premising that Judge Logan, whom have the honor to know, and whom he have the honor to know, and whom in truth I greatly esteem as a man of active and anno intellect, a respectable jurist, and a clever gentleman, has nevertheless been so long in the habit of entertaining himself and his friends with the annuement of chopping logic on all serts of premises, true and tales, with a total indifference to either, and with the sole intent of signalizing himself as an luggious dispitant, until his mind has become obscured and blanted to the perception of intellections. Breshe is the color of the largest and heat assorted in the city. To the following and blanted to the perception of intellections. and binned to the perception of intellec-tual truth, I will venture the assertion that a more fallacious, and a more shallow ara more fallacious, and a more shallow ar-nment was never uttored in behalf of ab-olute power and unacrupulous nanrpaon.

1. With the most palpable and inexcusate unfairness, the Judge sets out with the celaration that the secession ordinance nacted by South Carolina has involved the countryin, and by inference has caused, "every crime and calamity for which there is a name in any language," "Most lame and Impotent conclusion." The moral evils, the manifold crimes so mournfully enumerated by the Judge, are not the legitimate products of secession, per st, but the ordinary accompaniments of war, however, and by whomsoever instituted; and, in the present case, the unwoldable results of the numerous y, unnatural, and musutherized war imagurated by the miseripulous and shancless despotism at Washington.

2. The Judge pronounces, with judicial he country in, and by inference has caused 2. The Judge pronounces, with judicial emphasis, that the Constitution is not a compact between sovereign States. Let me ask what is a compact but an agreement, a consent? We renot the nine States parties to the agreement or consent founded upon a basis of mutual protection and equal rights? And while engaged in conference, deliberation, and final action upon the Constitution, was it not in the careful of covernity agreement.

upon the Constitution, was it not in the capacity of several, separate, and sovering States? If not separate and independent, where was the necessity for consent? and if not sovereign, how could the planties confer upon the Constitution a sovereignty which they themselves did not possess? It needs no learned jurish to reache these questions, and a therefore not possess: It becan be termed first to resolve these questions, and I therefore submit them for decision to the common sense of every intelligent reader.

That the original thirteen States were prior to, and at the formation of the Constitution, considered and recognized as separate independent and economic assets.

stitution, considered and recognized as sep state, independent and sovereign States, is evident from the fact that, for two years the States of Rhode Island and North Carolina refused to adopt it, and their perfect right to do so was questioned by none.

But, says the Judge, the Constitution is the tapreme law of the land, and "it is an abuse of language to call a law a compact." This is a distinction which, in the present connection, is wholly technical and insubstantial. True, the Constitution is a law, but nevertheless the form and expression of the compact on which it was founded, and construed in the spirit in which it was conceived and framed, it is, and must forever remain in its very essence and substance, a compact.

By far the most ingenious of all the sopulations with which the Judge has amused his readers, is that with which he attempts to confound the seconder by reference to the different modes through which the

the old and new States were incorporated in-to the Union, the old States by State urdi-nance, and the new States by act of Con-gress; arguing that if with some show of plausibility South Carolina could seede by

This is plainly what loglelans call "a non-sepather." Admit that Congress, we an act of the grace, heorporated Louisiana as a co-equal into the Union of States, and that fully enuncipated her from her territorial condition, it is clear that Congress of their liberty—never submit to be the slaves of the usurper who would divert attention from the degrace of his birth by the infamy that attaches to the deeds of his manhood!

[Special dispatch to the N. Y. Herald.]

HANDESTOWN, May 20.— It is reported here that great disafection exists among the troops at Harper's Ferry, on account of the existence of several factions. One favors the ameration of Virginia to the Confederate States, one the unconditional and seperate independence of Virginia, a third the conditional Union soldiers. The last two classes refuse to take the oath of allegiance to the Confederate States.

The people of Sharpshury village, thirteen miles South-east of the road to Harpers Ferry, swear that no more soldiers of the Confederate States army should pass through their town.

neither seek or wish an advantage, I desire that you return me the notes and the money paid you, and the negroes shall be subject to your order, which you will find omeh improved by kind treatment, since they came into my possession.

I feel justified in giving you, and the public, this notice, as I do not consider it fair play, that I should be held to pay for the very property you so opportunely dispessessed yourself of, and now seek to destroy both their value and nosefulness to me. I ask no more than to cancel the sale, restore to you your property and let each assume his original position, then your present efforts may be considered less selfish, because at your expense and not mine.

five entries, and Lucy Fowier is decidedly ler, writing from St. Johns, N. F., under the favorite. The ladies will flock there in date of May 8, gives these particulars of a disgraceful election riots in the province for Mayor:
In Harbor Give the liberal mole, to the number of some thousands, marched through the town, destroying the houses and ferniture of the Protestants and heat. Swarey, formerry of Cambridge, Mass., was obliged to take refugein the garrison. The milliery were ediction, but the magistrate was too cowardly to order the captain to fire, and the solders followed at the heels of the meh, unable to stir allagor in defence of life or property. At length an order was given to fire, the gans were brought to the 'ungent' when the new to dispure of preserving property to the value of $8,000, and wanted as several persons so severely that recovery is doubtful. Meantime the returning cilieer resigned, so the day passed without a single vote being recovered, and for the mesent the town is for the present the town is disfranchise l.

I now come to the tragedy of the day. In the town of Harbor Maine the condidates were all that dies, three of them members of the farmer Legislature, and one a new men. The late Attorney General, Mr. Hogsett, was the monume of the lishop. He formerly represented the District of Placential Legislature and the lishop. tia, Int his constituents refused to re elect him, so the Bishop, sent him to Harbor Maire, instructing the resident priest to support him. He took with him gang of rowides from St. Johns, determined by any means to seema his election. But the people were determined to support hier former member and colleagues. Mr. Hogsett and his gang marched through Harbor Maine to a place called Cat's Cove, where the other party were in strong fore, to mimidale them. On their way they were hailed from the busness along the ro-dside, and told to turn back; they refused, and a party concealed in the woods ared a blank volley at them; they still pressed on, however, when they were fined upon again in downright carnest. One man named Fury, fell dead, and seven or eight wounded, one of whom died next day. They were both men of femily. The party then returned to Harbor Maine, and the election went forward. After the public was corrected, on pain of death, by Hegsett's party, to declare him viceted. The election, however, is void, a special commission having decided that the other candidates had a majority. The Legislature meets on the 12th, and the cecasion is hook forward to with the deepest interest.
